Pride and Prejudice Quote Analysis

1. “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife.”
 - The first sentence of the book introduces the satirical tone of the novel and Austen’s social commentary
 - Also addresses some of the book’s themes, love and marriage
 - Austen uses hyperbole and exaggerated diction, such as “universally” and “must” to criticize the emphasis on marriage of Regency society
